

POSITION ANNOUNCEMENT
TBA (To Be Announced)

Doka Hog Wahoo (Where do we come from):
STEM Research and Instructional Improvement at FBCC

Position Title Environmental Science Faculty

Job Description: The Environmental Science Instructor is responsible for assisting in the teaching and curriculum development described in the (Tribal Colleges and University Program) TCUP

Location: Fort Berthold Comm College
New Town, ND 58763

Principal Duties and Responsibilities:

- Instructs students in Environmental Science with an emphasis in Mandan, Hidatsa and Arikara culture.
- Works with reservation elementary and high schools to develop professional development workshops
- Develops lesson plans and other course material appropriate to curriculum
- Advises students enrolled in Bachelor of Science Degree Program in Environmental Science.
- Requests textbooks, supplies, equipment and other resource materials, as needed
- Reviews and evaluates curriculum prior to end of academic year
- Develops recruitment strategies for dual credit in Environmental Science
- Attends committee meetings and workshops as assigned
- Assists in the development and implementation of Environmental Symposiums
- Performs other duties as assigned by the Principal Investigator
- Is responsible for assisting in the teaching and curriculum development of the program.

Reporting Relationship:

Reports directly to the TCUP Principal Investigator (Academic Dean)

Minimum Qualifications:

- PhD in the Science area
- Experience working in an Native American community
- 2 years College teaching experience preferred.
- Research Experience
- Excellent oral and written communication skills
- Experience in curriculum development